MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

D 2023 024

EXECUTIVE ORDER

Call for the First Extraordinary Session of the Seventy-Fourth General Assembly

Pursuant to the authority vested in the Governor of the State of Colorado and, in particular, pursuant to article IV, section 9 of the Colorado Constitution, and as recognized in article V, section 7 I Jared Polis, Governor of the State of Colorado, hereby find that the following extraordinary occasions exist to convene the Seventy-Fourth General Assembly to meet in special session.

I. Background

With home values rising at historic rates across Colorado, Coloradans face an immediate crisis with a forty-percent average increase in their property tax bills if property tax bills are not reduced. Taxpayers are facing higher property tax bills not just this year but in future years, and these are immediate, statewide concerns. Increased property taxes make it harder for Coloradans to stay in their homes, build wealth, and save for the future. Increasing property taxes not only impacts homeowners but also renters that bear the burden of increased costs on landlords. Renters are most vulnerable to increased property taxes because they do not benefit from the corresponding gain in equity, making it harder for hardworking Colorado renters to thrive and have economic freedom. The skyrocketing values affect Coloradans' ability to afford housing costs and an inflationary economy with higher interest rates is making it difficult for fixed-income seniors to stay in a home that was once affordable. Colorado taxpayers deserve and need bipartisan solutions now.

SB 23-303 (presented to voters as Proposition HH) proposed reducing assessment rates and limiting the growth in property tax collections to protect Colorado homeowners. It would have replaced revenue lost to local governments by setting aside $200 million in general fund and raising the state Taxpayer's Bill of Rights (TABOR) revenue limit for ten years. If Proposition HH had passed, it would have provided immediate relief for nonresidential and residential property owners in Colorado through 2032 without jeopardizing the revenue that goes to support fire districts, libraries, and schools. It also would have created a new subclass of renewable energy agricultural land for valuation for assessment and made the senior homestead exemption portable to give seniors more flexibility to downsize or move to a new property without losing the exemption. SB 23-303 addressed subject matter of significance to the people of Colorado.

Without the passage of Proposition HH at the ballot, there remains an immediate and dire need for solutions to help Coloradans impacted by rising property values. Some counties have warned homeowners that they should expect a forty to fifty percent increase in their 2024 and 2025 property tax bills. For Colorado's working families, the blow of higher property tax is felt in the greater context of rise in interest and inflation rates and cost of living. The General Assembly has the opportunity to provide support and optimism for families as they face next year, especially for the critical low-and-moderate income families that use income tax credits to pay for food and housing costs.

I am calling this extraordinary session to ask the General Assembly to put people over politics by taking immediate action to provide Colorado taxpayers relief that also balances the interests of local entities funded with property tax revenue. The General Assembly now has the ability to propose a solution that would provide property tax savings to Coloradans while still fully funding schools. As property taxes for 2023 become due in early 2024, Coloradans cannot logistically receive additional tax savings for this tax year without the immediate passage of new residential property tax measures. Colorado law sets forth deadlines by which local governments administer property tax. This extraordinary session must begin on November 17, 2023 in order to give local jurisdictions time to administer the new valuations, set levies, and meet the first payment deadline.

Additionally, low-income Colorado children will benefit from access to food during the summer months when they are not in school, and I am asking the General Assembly to take immediate action to support our children. The Colorado Department of Human Services (CDHS) requires immediate legislative action to meet a federal deadline to access federal Summer Electronic Benefits Transfer (EBT) funding for over 300,000 food-insecure Colorado children during the summer of 2024. Without sufficient clarity prior to the Second Regular Session of the Seventy-Fourth General Assembly, Colorado risks not being able to provide families with needed support to prevent hunger during the summer of 2024.

This call for an extraordinary session of the General Assembly does not prescribe the specific form that the legislation should take; however, as required by Article IV, section 9 of the Colorado Constitution, the business to be transacted at this special session shall be limited to the matters stated in Section III of this Executive Order.

II. Purpose and Need

A. Residential Property Tax Relief

With Colorado housing values among those increasing the fastest in the nation, we must urgently work together to provide solutions to Colorado homeowners facing significant property tax bill increases. We, therefore, believe it is right and proper to provide immediate relief for the local government revenue needs like fire department services and school funding.

The General Assembly should consider taking legislative action to create a property tax relief package to offset value increases that also balances the interests of schools and local governments that are funded with property tax. This could include but is not limited to changes to reserve policy, general fund, and TABOR tax refund mechanisms.

Simultaneously, to ensure that we are protecting Colorado taxpayers from future extreme property tax increases and being fiscally responsible, the General Assembly should also consider creating and providing a process to review and recommend long-term property tax relief. The General Assembly should consider a review of best practices to create property tax relief for homeowners and businesses, while preventing lapses in the administration of public services by local governments that rely on property tax revenue to provide such public services, and make legislative changes to create long-term tax relief and stability for Colorado homeowners and businesses.

B. Resources to Enable Colorado's Families to Receive Summer EBT

In 2022, Congress enacted the Consolidated Appropriations Act (PL 117-328), increasing access to meals for children during the summer months. Summer EBT is a new, permanent federal program to provide nutrition benefits to qualifying families for the months in which students are not in school. By participating in the program, Colorado would receive an estimated $35 million annually for over 300,000 food-insecure Colorado children during the critical summer months when there is limited access to other resources such as the free and reduced lunch program. States have until January 1, 2024 to provide the U.S. Department of Agriculture with an intent to administer the program for summer 2024. The need to rapidly establish systems and structures for this new program necessitates immediate action before the Second Regular Session of the 74th General Assembly to reduce the risk of non-compliance.

Given this critical timeline, the General Assembly should consider taking appropriate legislative action to allow the CDHS to establish and administer this program in partnership with CDE beginning in summer 2024. Such action should include but is not limited to providing resources for program administration and establishing relevant departmental authorities, including the authority to issue benefits, promulgate rules, and access the data needed for the purposes of administering the Summer EBT program in accordance with federal law.

III. Proclamation

I, Jared Polis, Governor of the State of Colorado, with this proclamation find extraordinary occasions exist to convene the Seventy-Fourth General Assembly of this State and summon the members of the Seventy-Fourth General Assembly to meet in Special Session at 9:00 AM on November 17, 2023, at the State Capitol, in the City and County of Denver, and designate the following specific subjects for consideration, appropriate legislative action, and funding:
